Community group begins

Preserve Rural Orange is a non-profit community organization that formed in September of 2008, in response to the University of North Carolina’s plans to build a new airport within Orange County. Of several proposed sites, the top two lay within Bingham Township, (the southwest region of Orange County). At that time, very little information was available regarding the University’s plans for the airport. Residents were surprised and concerned as they began to learn more about the threat of an airport.

Bingham Township has a long history as an agricultural area of the county. Dairy farms flourish here, and families have farmed these same thousands of acres of land for generations. The land includes the Haw River, Collins Creek, and Cane Creek watersheds and the source of Chapel Hill and Carrboro’s drinking water. Rural residents share a commitment to preserving their farms, woodlands and way of life. Historically, neighbors have come together over concerns that would have impacted the environmental integrity of watershed land, woodlands and farms.

In the fall of 2008, community volunteers focused efforts on opposing the proposed airport. In order to create a lasting organization, residents founded Preserve Rural Orange as a nonprofit organization to address current and future development plans that would adversely affect the rural community in southwest Orange County. We are committed to working for the preservation of our rural lands and community. We work to gather accurate information, communicate with public officials and organizations, research issues, and share information through publicized updates and community educational forums.

What we have accomplished - September 2008 to present

Looking back over the last six months, here is an overview of some of the activities and achievements of Preserve Rural Orange (PRO):

At the beginning of September, 2008, a handful of neighbors and local businesses had already begun circulating a petition opposing UNC’s plans to build a new airport in Orange County. By October, (and many additional volunteers later!) over 2000 signatures appeared on the petition presented to county commissioners.

More volunteers from the community assembled and formed ad hoc committees. These committees researched issues related to the proposed general aviation airport, met with public and university officials, raised public awareness and contacted the media.

In September and October PRO sponsored two public meetings held at the White Cross Recreation Center. Several hundred rural residents and friends came together to listen to speakers, offer viewpoints, share resources, and organize a well-reasoned opposition to the proposed airport.

Opportunities to get involved

Please consider volunteering to serve on one of the following committees or groups. Every committee needs additional members! If you have volunteered in the past and have not been contacted, please give us your name again. Some committees have not yet become active, and those who volunteered may not have been contacted.

Timeline for completion of organization

The Steering Committee of Preserve Rural Orange, at this time, is made up of six members. We need additional members to better represent our community, diversify ideas, and spread responsibilities among more people. We have postponed some decisions in hopes of putting these decisions to a larger committee.

Our timeline for the completion of organization is as follows:

Through March 31st we are collecting nomination forms for Steering Committee members. During the month of April, nominations will be circulated. We hope to welcome up to six additional members to the Steering Committee during our regularly scheduled monthly meeting on Monday, May 4th. Nomination forms are available either enclosed in this newsletter, attached to our Community Survey, or available on request from admin@preserveruralorange.org. For further details on this process, please contact Erin Haygood, Legal Committee Chair at ehaygood@gmail.com

Currently the Steering Committee is circulating a survey. We want to collect as much community input as possible as we establish organizational decisions and policies. Please fill out a survey if you have not already. Surveys will be collected on March 31st 2009. Responses will be compiled

By November, a loosely formed Steering Committee launched the Preserve Rural Orange website. The Media and Publicity Committee printed yard signs and bumper stickers reading “No Airport.” Soon these could be seen along roads and in yards throughout the county (thank you to everyone who displayed signs and bumper stickers!).

The Legal Committee made an application to the North Carolina Secretary of State and received Articles of Incorporation as a nonprofit agency. The Research Committee collected data on flights at Horace Williams and information on many regional airports throughout NC.

In addition to the airport issue, committee members and volunteers began to gather facts about the Orange County Waste Transfer site selection, and a project group formed to lead this initiative. Volunteers also began collecting information about the UNC Animal Research Facility on Orange Chapel-Clover Garden Church Road.

In December and January PRO collaborated with photographer Jesse Kalisher to present the “No Airport: White Cross” photo exhibit. At the exhibit opening on January 9, 2009, community members and supporters celebrated UNC Chancellor Holden Thorp’s announcement of his decision not to create an airport authority and to move flights to RDU.

In January PRO members attended a tour with Orange County commissioners of the OWASA property chosen as a possible site for the county transfer station. In February, a representative from Preserve Rural Orange joined the Orange County Commissioners on their tour of the Greensboro Transfer Station and wrote an informational update for our website.

This month, Preserve Rural Orange is bringing the community an informational meeting on the transfer station issue and making plans for the future.
